

COMPLETE PAVING OF PARK PLAYGROUNDS

At the meeting of the City Council held in the City Hall last Monday evening, a request for permission to construct sidewalks on the east side of Woodrow street in the Metropolis Homestead was presented and was referred to the city engineer's office for investigation.

The park committee reported the pavement on the proposed playgrounds at the city park was completed. This has given the children of this district a fine place to play. The police department was instructed to stop all skaters that roll down Park avenue and jump the curb.

A communication was received from the League of California Municipalities, asking the indorsement of a request to the state for a research of sewer disposal. As this is a matter of vital importance, the request was granted.

The ordinance committee reported that after a survey of the city Saturday afternoon with the chief of police and Mr. Barry of the California Automobile Association, the new traffic ordinance is now ready and will go to print in a few days. This will place Daly City along with about 150 other cities in the state with a uniform traffic law.

The Council spoke of helping the county secure the assistance of the state in creating a free port in this county by developing a harbor down the peninsula. This should interest all who reside in San Mateo county, as it will add to our growth and wealth.

The next meeting of the Council will be held Monday evening, February 25.

GOLF ENTHUSIASTS
PLAN TOURNAMENT

It is rumored that a number of Daly City golf enthusiasts are considering plans for a golf tournament, in which all the contestants will be residents of Daly City. While no definite move has as yet been made in this direction, it is hoped that enough interest will be manifested in the proposed tournament to warrant those who are advocating the move to proceed with final arrangements.

There are probably fifty residents of Daly City who would be glad to enter the tournament, and should it prove a success—and there seems no good reason for anything but success—the tournament could be made an annual affair. It would give our golf players a chance for friendly competition, and would undoubtedly prove to be good advertising for Daly City.

Here's hoping that the golf players of Daly City get together and stage a contest that will give all players a chance to show their skill in this popular game.

APPRECIATE IMPROVEMENTS
AT THE DALY CITY PARK

To the Honorable Board of Councilmen of Daly City:

We, the undersigned, wish to take this opportunity to thank you for the wonderful work which you have done in making a park for this end of Daly City. It is surely a fine thing, and has met with the approval of every mother and father. It gives the children a place to play, and makes them happy, for as soon as school is out all the children who are big enough to be away from their mother are not on the street, but playing in the park. We are sure the children would thank you if they could, and we, representing their parents, wish to let you know that we think it a wonderful help, and a fine improvement.

Again thanking you, and hoping to be of assistance to you in the future.

Members of Company No. 2, Daly City Fire Department.

By A. M. Harrison, Chairman.

ENTERTAINS IN HONOR OF DAUGHTER'S BIRTHDAY

Mrs. A. Parmisano, of Evergreen avenue, entertained a group of children last Saturday afternoon in honor of her little daughter Corinne, who celebrated her fifth birthday.

The youngsters were royally entertained, playing games and otherwise enjoying the afternoon. The table was prettily decorated in Valentine colors and favors, and in the center of the table was a large surprise package from which each child pulled a string and received a gift. Corinne received many gifts from her friends.

Those present were: Geraldine Parmisano, Jackie Lunny, Marie Reardon, Raymond Lunny, Evelyn Rancatore, Frank Rancatore, Eleanor Wilson, Thomas Rancatore, Cathleen Core, Jimmy Davidson, June Core, Violet Bullo, Tillie Castro, Stanley Parmisano, Joe Castro, Lucille Glovich, Rita Benassini, Mildred Larson, Elizabeth Callan, Evelyn Larson and Catherine Callan.

SCOUTS SEEK FUNDS
FOR YEAR'S BUDGET

Boy Scouts of San Mateo county—more than 800 of them—gathered for a monster rally in Burlingame last Friday night, February 8, to be rededicated to the Scout oath and to prepare for the observance of the nineteenth anniversary of the founding of the organization in the United States.

A concert by the county Scout band of seventy-five pieces, a monster Indian pageant in which more than 400 boys took part, the various activities of first aid, fire building, semaphore signaling and all the marvelous training of the boyhood of the county by Scoutmasters was presented.

The big rally was designed to usher in the observance of the week when all Boy Scouts should wear their uniforms, and when window displays in stores emphasized the "Boy Scout idea," and when the big county budget drive should start. Men and women of Daly City are being asked to do their share in raising the $10,500 necessary to meet the budget in 1929.

Among the speakers who emphasized that the Boy Scout appeal is universal, drawing no lines of race, creed or religion, and that is not military in character, were Charles J. Eldridge, chairman of the county executive council, Scout Albert Clark, of Burlingame, and Thomas T. Wiseman, San Mateo, chairman of the county drive committee.

"The finest boyhood in America asks of San Mateo county men and women the funds with which to continue the work of character building here," said Chairman Wiseman. "We expect to more than meet this budget, but we must subscribe to the fund if we want to continue to give our boys the great benefit of Scout training, which is recognized everywhere as the greatest thing of its kind ever to come into being. Doctors, lawyers, ministers, teachers, the press and all those who think in the terms of leadership recognize the extreme importance of this work of character by the Boy Scouts. President Coolidge has praised it as the method that creates the highest type of citizenship. Other leaders in every walk of life have given it their praise and annually give their cash to support it."

Mr. R. C. MacArthur, heading the campaign committee in Daly City, has summed up the need for the drive in the following statement:

"The work of the Boy Scouts is such that community leaders throughout the entire country give it their utmost support. Chiefly it is a work of character building. Every step in the Boy Scout program is a step toward that end and toward the development of alert minds and strong, healthy bodies. The organization is not military in any sense, and it enlists boys everywhere without regard to creed or race. It builds toward the great democracy that all political leaders hope for."

"In San Mateo county great strides have been made and the high type of boyhood here has been given official recognition in the national councils. We must continue and extend this great work for the boyhood of San Mateo county, and it is to that end that funds are being asked this week."

Those on the committee here in addition to Mr. MacArthur are Mayor H. H. Smith, Councilman Arthur Bodien and Mr. A. L. Stockton.

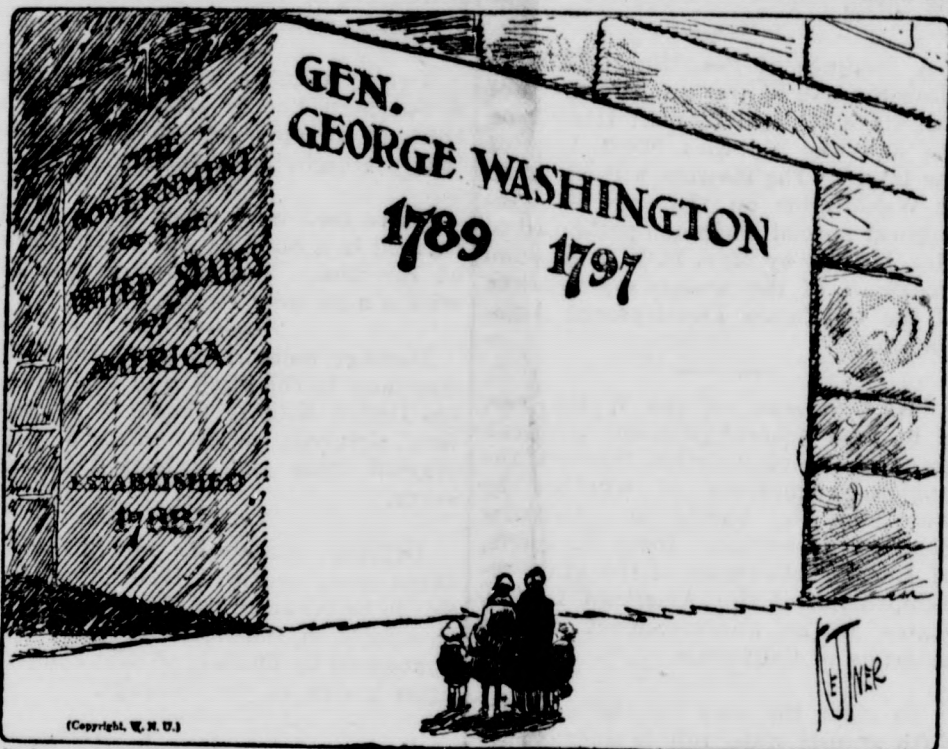

THE BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE
REQUEST YOUR ATTENDANCE

The Baptist Young Peoples' Union of Calvary Baptist Mission, located on Mission street just below Oliver, extends a hearty welcome to all young people of Daly City and vicinity. Meetings are held every Sunday evening at 6:40. The meeting starts off with a lively song service, followed by a program put on each Sunday by a different young person. The members also discuss some topic, the one for this Sunday being "How Much Should We Strive for Material Things?" The Young People feel sure that you will like these meetings. At the present time the Calvary Baptist Young Peoples' Union has an enrollment of more than forty. There are more than 5,000 Young People in the bay region attending and taking part in these meetings. There must be good in them; surely they can't all be wrong. Come and see for yourself.

PRE-LENTEN SURPRISE PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. E. Nation, Sr., and family, of Peoria street, were pleasantly surprised by a group of their friends from San Francisco last Saturday evening. Dancing was enjoyed during the evening to radio music, and at midnight a dainty supper was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. A. Mahl, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Valpey, Miss Irene Valpey, Allen Valpey, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Nation and daughters Verna and Cecil, Miss Irene Young, Bud Young, Miss Celcia Collings, A. Jones, Hassy Meeks and James Farley.

The Corner Stone of Our Government

ROYAL NEIGHBORS
ENTERTAIN GUESTS

The members of Mission Camp were guests of Vista Grande Camp, Royal Neighbors of America, on Tuesday evening, February 11, at Eagles Hall, Daly City. Fourteen members were initiated into the order. Mrs. G. Gehring was hostess of the evening and filled the part in a most delightful manner.

The program was very interesting. A talk on Abraham Lincoln, by Lillian Landini, and a recitation of "How the Putneys Enjoyed a Picnic," by Dolly Putney; two vocal solos by Mrs. E. Blahout, "Trees," and "That Wonderful Mother of Mine," were received in a most hearty way.

At the conclusion of the program there was a delightful supper, served by Mrs. Mary White and Mrs. Jack Dennis. The table was decorated with hearts, red carnations and candles forming the center piece. About sixty members and visitors were present, and all expressed themselves as having a most enjoyable evening, and stated that "Daly City folks sure know how."

CALVARY BAPTIST MISSION
ENJOYS PLEASING GROWTH

Since moving into new quarters at 5724 Mission street, the Calvary Baptist Mission notes an increase in attendance, both in church services and Sunday school. A number of new faces were visible Sunday morning and evening. Calvary Mission has a way of making strangers feel at home.

The Sunday school is now beginning a Red and Blue contest, to see which side can have the most members present on time at 9:45 Sunday morning. Those coming late do not count in this contest. "Every member present on time," is our motto.

The Ladies' Auxiliary have their stated meeting the second and fourth Fridays of each month, at 2 o'clock. All women are invited to attend.

B. Y. P. U. had its banner meeting last Sunday evening. "Watch us grow," they advise.

Wednesday evening at 7:30, prayer service begins. The pastor has been requested to give a series of lessons on Prophecy. Those interested may attend these services.

Every Friday evening the B. Y. P. U. has a get-together meeting at the Mission. This meeting is growing in attendance and interest.

Regular services: Church school, 9:45 a. m.; Morning worship, 11 a. m.; B. Y. P. U., 6:45 p. m.; Evening worship, 8 p. m.; Prayer service, Wednesday, 7:30 p. m.; B. Y. P. U. Midweek, Friday, 7:30 p. m.; Womans' Auxiliary, second and fourth Fridays, at 2 p. m.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION
AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

The Methodist congregation of Daly City are planning their anniversary celebration. This year the celebration will be held a little later than the actual anniversary date because of other events interfering. Friday evening, March 1, has been selected as the date for the celebration, and committees are now planning and arranging a fitting program for the occasion. Some unusual features are being decided and full announcement of the anniversary program will be made in this paper next week.

INSTALLATION SERVICE AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

The young people are to be the center of things in the Methodist church next Sunday evening when the pastor, the Rev. George Woodall, is to preach a special sermon for them in connection with an installation service of the newly elected officers of the Epworth League. There will be but the one service, and the entire congregation is urged to be present as a courtesy to the young people of the church.

TROOP NO. 103 HAS
NEW SCOUTMASTER

Mr. William Ruff, Scoutmaster of Troop No. 103 Boy Scouts, of Daly City, has been compelled to resign as leader of that troop, due to the fact that he is studying law and that will occupy the majority of his time. His past performance has been very satisfactory, and he leaves the helm with much regret, as Mr. Ruff was very closely united with the boys in the splendid work of Scouting. However, Mr. Ruff will be associated with the troop, as it is believed he will be a member of the troop committee.

His successor, Carl R. Rebeck, Jr., who leaves his place as assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 149, began his work last Tuesday.

There will be many lively competitions between the two rival troops, and we trust that Daly City will be able to say that its residents are proud of the boys who have been so devoted to such a worthy cause.

VETERAN FIREMEN ENJOY THEIR ANNUAL BANQUET

The Veteran Firemen of Daly City held their annual banquet in Eagles Hall last Saturday evening, about one hundred members and friends attending, several members of the San Francisco Veteran Firemen's Association being present.

During the course of the dinner, President Twisten introduced Councilman A. J. Bodien, who acted as toastmaster for the evening.

Larry Shaw, past president of the association, was presented with a past president's pin by the toastmaster. Interesting talks on the good work performed by the firemen in the past, and what is looked forward to in the future, were given by Mayor H. H. Smith, City Clerk B. C. Ross, Edward Freyer, T. O'Rourke and Chief J. J. Kennedy.

The guests were entertained during the evening by the following firemen: Vocal duet by Ed. Heims and Otto Schramm; Trombone solo by Councilman Henry Sundermann; Musical selections by A. N. Lang. Ernest Cuneo led in community singing.

A model of a miniature fire station and apparatus as it was twenty years ago was presented to the Veterans by E. Goldkuhl, it being his own work.

NEW GRAND JURY
SELECTED BY JUDGE

A list of 30 veniremen to serve on the 1929-30 San Mateo county grand jury, was drawn Monday morning in Superior court by Judge George H. Buck.

The new trial jury includes twelve names from the First township, nine from the Second township, seven from the Third township, one from the Fourth township, and one from the Fifth township.

Those from the First township are: Olga Ottoboni, Colma; Carl Hultberg, San Bruno; Nellie C. Lloyd, South San Francisco; J. E. A. Miller, 255 Irvington street, Daly City; Helen Callan, 114 Evergreen avenue, Daly City; Mary E. Archer, 158 Templeton avenue, Daly City; John C. Taggart, 247 Knowles avenue, Daly City; Anna T. Harrison, Colma; Alice M. Eiker-enkotter, South San Francisco; Cora Thorsen, Burlingame; Rose Albrecht, Millbrae.

ANNOUNCES LOWER GAS RATE

San Mateo county will participate in an $800,000 rate reduction on gas sold by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, under an order by the State Railroad Commission in San Francisco.

The amount of the rate reduction to consumers here will be announced in the near future. The reduction affects the San Francisco bay district and other California areas where gas is produced from fuel oil.

REDISTRICTING BILL WILL BE INTRODUCED

A measure to compel supervisors of San Mateo county to redistrict the county in accordance with the population will be introduced at the coming session of the state legislature.

Assurance of this was given at a conference last week between Assemblyman Harry L. Parkman, Mayor C. A. Buck of Burlingame, City Attorney John F. Davis of Burlingame, and Councilman Fred Peterson, of Burlingame, it is reported.

The Burlingame committee visited the assemblyman after a conference the day before with Governor C. C. Young, in which Governor Young is said to have given the benefit of his advice and promised assistance.

Assemblyman Parkman told the Burlingame committee that, under the law, each assemblyman is permitted to introduce but two bills during the second half of the session of the state legislature. One of these bills, he promised, would be that forcing the redistricting of San Mateo county.

Mayor Buck's committee was recently authorized by resolution of the Burlingame city council, which authorized the mayor to name a committee which would seek definitely to "end the present situation." Burlingame is more vitally affected than elsewhere on the bay side of the county, because it is split in half by the present district lines. The upper half of Burlingame is in district number one, represented by Supervisor Rosalie Brown.

Under the present districting plan, it is charged, two supervisors on the coast side, representing 1,076 votes, hold the balance of power over the entire county and are liable to line up at will with either one of the other three supervisors who represent a total of 30,000 votes.

$100,000 AVAILABLE
FOR SHORELINE ROAD

One hundred thousand dollars is now available for work upon the new Shoreline highway of San Mateo, San Francisco and Santa Cruz counties. This message was given at the second meeting of the newly formed Salada Beach Chamber of Commerce, last week, by Supervisor Andrew J. Gallagher of San Francisco.

Supervisor Gallagher is chairman of the joint highway commission of the three counties and will personally supervise the progress of this splendid new road, which will run along the seacoast from San Francisco to Santa Cruz, directly, following the route of the old Ocean Shore railway, which for many years has been abandoned. It will be the first completed highway route along the coast in the northern part of California.

Its route carries it right through Salada Beach, and it was this fact that was largely responsible for the formation of a Chamber of Commerce by this community, which is now prepared to keep abreast of its own growth, according to Clarence J. Stafford, president of the organization.

Supervisor Gallagher pointed out that the first unit of work on the highway, which is to commence very shortly, will be located on the Pedro mountain grade, one of the most difficult stretches of the roadbed.

CALIFORNIA DELEGATION
JOINS IN HOSPITAL FIGHT

California's entire delegation in Congress has joined in the fight to secure passage by Congress of the American Legion's rehabilitation program which includes the additional hospital facilities required to care for the veterans.

Indorsement of the program of the American Legion of California which is asking for an increase of at least 500 beds in the Wadsworth general hospital, Sawtelle, a 250 bed increase at the Veterans' hospital, San Fernando, and the erection of a general hospital of at least 300 beds in San Francisco county under the operation and jurisdiction of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, has been received from the members of the California delegation at Washington by State Commander F. N. Belgrano, Jr.

JUNIOR BASEBALL CHIEF WILL VISIT CALIFORNIA

Preparing for the 1930 national junior baseball series for the championship of the United States, Dan Sowers, director of the American Legion's "little world series," will be a California visitor tomorrow, according to word received by State Adjutant James K. Fisk. Sowers will officially represent National Commander Paul V. McNutt of the American Legion in presenting citations to the Montgomery-Ward boys team of Oakland, national junior champions last year, and to the state department the Howard P. Savage trophy for winning the national crown in 1928. Sowers is now touring the country in the interest of the junior baseball competition to be held during the summer months.

RIDGEMAN ROAD TO GET FINANCIAL AID

Contribution of $5,000 to the city treasury of Hillsborough for improvement of Ridgeman road, a necessary connecting link with Black Mountain road, was ordered in a resolution passed by the San Mateo county board of supervisors at the regular meeting last Monday in Redwood City.

Acting upon a letter from Edith Tate Thompson, the board decided to send a communication to our state senator and assemblyman endorsing the measure, which, if passed by the legislature and the voters, would provide for a convalescent department for the county tuberculosis colonies.

Two highways in Woodside were ordered abandoned as public roadways. The Union Paving company was granted a 60-day extension of time to complete paving of streets at Lomita Park.

In a letter the state highway commission announced that $83,000 had been allotted to the San Francisco-San Mateo joint highway district for extension of Junipero Serra boulevard.

County Clerk Elizabeth M. Kneese read the grand jury report and comments were made on it by members of the board and District Attorney Franklin Swart.

BAY BRIDGE TO AID IN REDUCING FOOD PRICE

Increased prosperity for California farmers, and a hard swat at the high cost of living, in so far as fruits, vegetables and farm produce are concerned, are promised by the San Francisco Bay toll bridge, the world's longest highway bridge, which is scheduled to be opened to traffic on March 2.

The promises accompany an announcement made by Arthur Batty, president of the bridge company who said:

"Farmers of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys in the future will be enabled to send their trucks, laden with farm products, direct to San Francisco over the new $7,500,000 bridge. Use of the span will lessen traveling time between interior California and the San Francisco markets. This course will also avoid considerable traffic congestion."

As a consequence the new direct route, farmers, selling their own products in the San Francisco market, it is declared, will exert a strong influence in reducing the costs of food-stuffs to the San Francisco housewife.

Farmers in large numbers, recent surveys show, now send their products to the Oakland markets, which quote prices on farm products considerably lower than do markets elsewhere. When the bridge is opened, it is stated, farmers will be able to develop new sources of revenue by driving direct to the San Francisco markets with their own products. The running time by the bridge route is shown by tests to average from 20 minutes to one hour less than the time for other routes connecting San Francisco with interior California.

COUNTY INDUSTRIAL CLUB IS ORGANIZED

Action to perpetuate the recently organized San Mateo county industrial conference was taken at a meeting held in the offices of the San Mateo chamber of commerce Monday evening.

"The San Mateo County Industrial club" will be the name of the permanent organization it was decided. Breakfast meetings will be held once a month by the club.

A committee to draw up the by-laws and work out a skeleton program for the new club was appointed. At each monthly breakfast meeting two prominent speakers will be invited to talk on industrial development. As the club progresses a definite and concrete program for industrial expansion on the peninsula will be outlined, according to Judge McGrath. The object of the organization will be to "industrialize" the minds of the people of San Mateo county and to sell the idea of industries on the peninsula to the people of San Francisco, declares Judge McGrath.

MOTOR VEHICLE FEE SHARE
GIVEN SAN MATEO COUNTY

San Mateo county's share of the motor vehicle registration fees collected in the state this year is $44,498, according to an announcement by Frank G. Snook, chief of the state division of motor vehicles.

The collection for the entire state totaled $1,820,621, an increase of $359,404 over 1927. One-half of the fee collections has been apportioned to the state highway commission and the other half, less deduction for traffic officers' salaries, goes to the counties.

TRANS-AMERICA TO INCREASE CAPITAL

Approval of an increase in the authorized capital of Trans-America Corporation to $1,250,000,000, represented by 50,000,000 shares, and the intention of forming a British company with headquarters in London to take over the activities of the parent institution in foreign enterprises, its investment in foreign securities and foreign banks—including the Banca d'America e d'Italia, as well as its affiliated company the Ameritalia Corporation—was announced following the annual stockholders meeting held in Wilmington Delaware.

authorizes the board of directors to issue and distribute any portion of the stock as stock dividends from time to time, or to use it in the purchase of stock in banks or other enterprises," said L. M. Giannini, executive vice-president, in commenting on the outcome of the meeting. "We are also put in a position, when called upon, to provide for an increase in the capital of the affiliated and auxiliary companies of the institutions controlled by Trans-America Corporation. More and more attention is being paid to these subsidiary companies, particularly since they have extended the scope of their activities to include participation on a larger scale in underwritings and the distribution of high grade stocks, as well as dealing in bonds. The continued widening of the field in which our affiliated organizations are interested, requires a constant enlargement of their capital structures, so that they may be placed on a basis comparable to other similar metropolitan organizations. Since Trans-America is a holding company, whose function it is to control and direct the operation of its subsidiaries, it is essential that our plans should be formed with the intention of building up and strengthening the working capital of these affiliations. While the funds of the parent organization may be employed from time to time in other channels, this must be regarded as a temporary expedient resorted to only until such time as they may flow into their normal course.

"We are prepared to proceed with the establishment of our British company, and will have our vice-president, John M. Grant, in charge of our London office. As a former vice-president of the American Express Company, he directed the organization of its European offices, and the institution of its travelers cheque and letter of credit service."

Miss Mary Dell Coryell, Los Angeles school teacher, whose back was broken when a car driven by E. D. Rosher, who was showing her real estate he had for sale, struck a chuck hole and hurled her against the roof of his automobile, has been granted $20,000 damages by a Superior Court jury.

Gabriel Valentin, of Manila, induced a woman to part with $8,000 upon his declaration that he possessed supernatural powers whereby he could produce gold from land which he proposed to purchase with the money. He drew a sentence of six years, being unable to impress the judge with his mysterious power.

SOME ODDS AND ENDS OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

California's game farm, located near Yountsville in the Napa valley, is receiving its annual "going over" preparatory to the start of the 1929 campaign of raising and planting game birds for California sportsmen. Most of the birds start laying in March and from that time on things hum at the farm.

A bouquet of beautiful California blossoms will be the gift of women of this state to Mrs. Herbert Hoover on the day she becomes "first lady of the land." The flowers will be taken to Washington on the Palo Alto inaugural special train and presented to Mrs. Hoover by Mrs. D. E. F. Easton, chairman of the women's committee of the California Development Association.

"Any veteran of the World war, if he was honorably discharged, can get free hospitalization through the Legion, regardless of whether he was shot in battle or otherwise disabled in service," Irwin T. Quinn, of Eureka, chairman of the state rehabilitation of the American Legion, states in an announcement to the veterans of California.

To clear the way for the seventy-fifth annual state fair in Sacramento this year, the next "Days of '49" celebration at the California capital has been postponed until 1930. This action was taken recently by directors of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the "days of old, days of gold" events previously staged with great success.

The state of California will disburse $106,432,790 for highway purposes in the two fiscal years extending from July 1, 1929, to June 30, 1931. This is shown in the budget submitted by Governor C. C. Young to the state legislature.

Grammar school burglars who have been operating all over San Mateo county last Saturday night visited the San Carlos school and made a haul of nearly $100.

Awarding of the contract for the building of Burlingame's new $30,000 fire house was again laid over by the city council at a special meeting at which the four lowest bids were considered. The councilmen decided to further investigate the bids.

James E. Walker, ex-college student of a year, and confessed safe-cracker in four San Mateo county jobs, pleaded guilty before Superior Judge George H. Buck, last Saturday morning, to burglarizing the United States Laundry office at Beresford.

A bill to increase San Mateo county's superior judges from one to two is before the house judiciary committee at Sacramento, having been introduced by Assemblyman Harry M. Parkman, of San Mateo.

Twenty persons were injured when a Southern Pacific electric train ran through an open switch and crashed into a freight locomotive in Oakland.

Three men were killed and a fourth injured in a blast at the powder plant at Hercules. The explosion was felt within a 20 mile radius.

Damage amounting to about $1,000 was done to the kitchen of the famous old Ogden Mills residence at Millbrae late Saturday night when a blaze started from an overheated cooking stove.

Drilling operations at Purissima, three miles south of Half Moon Bay, are to be resumed by the Midstate Oil Company in the near future, it was announced by officials of that company after a visit to the holdings.

A stay of ten days in the county jail is the price Harry Greenback, San Francisco youth, is paying for having struck Winifred Coats, San Mateo junior college student, recently while the latter was acting as door-keeper to a basketball game.

As the result of a paper box full of hot ashes being placed on a wooden floor, damage amounting to $1,000 was done to Hadad's Sales Company store, in Redwood City.

Representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, Lions Club and Twenty-Third Club of Porterville, Tulare county, have decided to take an option on a block on which it is planned to erect a $100,000 hospital.

Three measures have been introduced in the state legislature to repeal the so-called "gin marriage" law, requiring a three day public notice before issuance of a wedding license. One of them would provide that the bride to be need not appear at the license bureau.

FIRESTONE TALKS TO HIS EMPLOYEES ACROSS OCEAN

When the English plant of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company was opened recently in London, some 300 representatives of the company gathered for the dedication services. Harvey S. Firestone, Sr., the president of the company and intimate friend of Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison, was unable to be present, but from his home in Akron, Ohio, by means of the radio telephone service and land lines, he addressed his foreign representatives, talking with them for ten minutes, despite the fact that he was separated by the great Atlantic ocean.

"THE SILENT HOUSE" THRILLER COMING TO CURRAN THEATRE

When "The Music Box Revue" moves out of the Curran Theatre, San Francisco, Saturday evening, February 1, a new play called "The Silent House" will take possession of the stage, opening the following night, February 17. This is one of Messrs. Shubert's successes and is credited with a run of practically a year on Broadway, following which the show went direct to Chicago, where it ran four months. Since these two engagements the thriller, as it is billed, has been seen in practically all the principal cities of the East.

From the opening curtain of "The Silent House," said to be the greatest thriller ever staged, when a murder is committed in the first act, until the last moment, when a seemingly impossible rescue is effected, the plot moves swiftly, with excitement constantly abounding. It is totally unlike any thriller ever written.

"The Silent House" ran for more than a year in both London and New York, and will come to the Curran exactly as it was originally produced. The company to appear here is the original American assemblage.

Failure to answer a court summons is a serious delinquency, unless one has a good alibi, as Henry Nelson, a tender at a crib four miles out from Chicago in Lake Michigan, set forth. "Ice too thick for a boat, too thin to skate on; can't swim four miles under water."

WHEREAS, the said grantors have, and each of them has made default in the payment of the said promissory note and in the fulfillment of the obligation secured by said deed of trust and have, and each of them has defaulted under the terms of said deed of trust; and WHEREAS, the Board of Directors of the said Fidelity Building and Loan Association, a corporation, did on the 15th day of October, 1928, duly pass and adopt a resolution in accordance with and under the authority of said deed of trust declaring that the said James A. Linforth and Emma C. Linforth, his wife, and each of them, were in default in the payment of the said promissory note and in the fulfillment of the obligation created by said deed of trust for a period in excess of six months to secure the payment of which promissory note the said deed of trust was executed and in the payments becoming due to said Corporation according to the terms of said deed of trust; and wherein, and whereby the said Board of Directors did exercise the option given to it by said promissory note and by said deed of trust to declare and did declare the whole of the principal and interest remaining unpaid on said promissory note and all interest due and unpaid thereon and all sums of money due under said deed of trust to be forthwith immediately due and payable; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Directors of said Corporation did by said resolution demand that said Anglo-California Trust Company, a corporation, as trustee, under the power and authority conferred upon it by said deed of trust and in pursuance of said resolution, should sell the real property described in said deed of trust to satisfy said indebtedness; and WHEREAS, a notice of breach of obligation and election to sell said property under said deed of trust was duly recorded in the office of the County Recorder of the County of San Mateo, State of California, on the 26th day of October, 1928, in Volume 375 of Official Records at page 483 and following.

NOW, THEREFORE, in accordance with the terms and under the authority of the said deed of trust and in pursuance of said resolution and of said demand, the undersigned, as Trustee, of said Trust Company, a corporation, as trustee, as aforesaid does hereby give notice that on Monday, the 25th day of February, 1929, at 10 o'clock A. M. of said day at the office and bank of said Anglo-California Trust Company at No. 532 Market Street, San Francisco, California, it will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash United States gold coin of the present standard all that certain lot, piece or parcel of land situated and being in the City of Daly City, County of San Mateo, State of California, and bounded and more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Lot 15 in Block 11, as designated on the map entitled "Map of the Crocker Estate Tract, Subdivision No. 1," which map was filed in the office of the Recorder of the County of San Mateo, State of California, June 1, 1908, in Volume 6 of Maps, at page 16.

Together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments, appurtenances and easements thereunto belonging, or in anywise appertaining, or therewith usually had and enjoyed; and also the right, title and interest, homestead claim and other right, legal or equitable, which the said James A. Linforth and Emma C. Linforth, his wife, or either of them had at the date thereof, or have since acquired in and to said premises and the appurtenances or any part thereof.

TERMS OF SALE: Cash in gold coin of the United States of America of the present standard, payable to the undersigned at the fall of the hammer.

Dated: San Francisco, California, January 26, 1929.

The GREATER HUDSON

and Motordom calls for LARGEST HUDSON output of all time

Already in response to the public's demand, production of the Greater Hudson has been increased, and then increased again—by far the largest schedule Hudson ever found necessary.

In their own words, by their marked and recorded ballots, motorists by tens of thousands are telling us the Greater Hudson is truly the greatest of all time.

Voting in every Hudson salesroom in the country, these enthusiastic multitudes have piled up the most convincing endorsement in Hudson history. Perhaps even more important, they have bought these beautiful new Hudsons in such numbers that we must make thousands more of them to insure prompt delivery.

Every experience and suggestion of the world's largest 6-cylinder ownership is incorporated in the 64 improvements of the Greater Hudson.

As co-authors of these creations the 1,000,000 Super-Six owners are naturally first to want to see, inspect and drive them. It is particularly interesting to observe their special satisfaction in the numerous body improvements. In comment, these important developments in body design and appointment, fully equal the more dramatic qualities of the more than 80-mile-an-hour performance.

They definitely set Hudson apart from like-priced cars, just as Hudson performance stands alone among all cars.

Come, see and drive the Greater Hudson. We believe one ride will make it the car of your choice.

Denver Boy is a Winner

Every mother realizes how important it is to teach children good habits of conduct but many of them fail to realize the importance of teaching their children good bowel habits until the poisons from decaying waste held too long in the system have begun to affect the child's health.

Watch your child and at the first sign of constipation, give him a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it quickly drives away those distressing ailments, such as headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness, feverishness, fretfulness, etc. It gives them a hearty appetite, regulates their stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. For over fifty years, leading physicians have prescribed it for half-sick, bilious, constipated children. More than 4 million bottles used a year shows how mothers depend on it.

Mrs. C. G. Wilcox, 3855 1/2 Wolff St., Denver, Colorado, says: "My son, Jackie, is a prize winner for health, now, but we had a lot of trouble with him before we found his trouble was constipation and began giving him California Fig Syrup. It fixed him up quick, gave him a good appetite, made him sleep fine and he's been gaining in weight right along since the first few days, taking it."

To avoid inferior imitations of California Fig Syrup, always look for the word "California" on the carton.

If all the statisticians were placed end to end they would reach another foolish conclusion.

Will Cold Worry

You This Winter?

Some men throw off a cold within a few hours of contracting it. Anyone can do it with the aid of a simple compound which comes in tablet form, and is no trouble to take or to always have about you. Don't "dope" yourself when you catch cold; use Pape's Cold Compound. Men and women everywhere rely on this amazing little tablet.—Adv.

Help Kidneys By Drinking More Water

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Help Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

Six hundred girls from all parts of the United States and from several foreign countries gathered at Mills College to register for the spring semester, which opened recently. Of the total registration for the new term about 30 girls are entering the college for the first time.

One hangar has been completed and another will soon be constructed at Porterville's new airport, just south of the city on the Bakersfield highway. Ground for the runways is being leveled and work rushed in preparation for daily flying with a new American Eagle plane which arrived recently from Los Angeles.

That Battery E, 143d Field Artillery, C. N. G., is to have a new armory in Livermore is the announcement made this week by Capt. L. E. Wright. Provision for the new structure, says Wright, is included in the ten year building plan laid out by Governor Young. The building is to be erected in 1933 and will cost $35,000.

With a view to standardizing rodeo entertainments in all of Northern America, representatives of cowboy and cowgirl contests in eight western states gathered in Salinas recently and organized the Rodeo Association of America. Delegates came from California, Arizona, Idaho, Nevada, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana and New Mexico.

Plans have been completed for a fifth building on the new campus of the University of California at Westwood Hills, Assistant Comptroller Robert Underhill announces. This building, which is to house the teachers' college of the University, will be square feet of floor space, and cost three stories in height, contain 57,000 approximately $450,000.

Dedication of the Tracy airport will cover a period of three days, April 26, 27 and 28. The field is under three-year lease to James McDermott Post, American Legion. Plans are being arranged for air races, flying stunts, parachute jumping and other features. It is expected that planes representing the army, navy and the marine corps will perform the opening day.

An effort to effect the return of 100 acres of land in San Francisco now held by the Federal government to the city of San Francisco and the heirs of General John C. Fremont was instituted recently by Congresswoman Florence P. Kahn. Mrs. Kahn introduced a bill in the House providing for relinquishment of the property. The land in question was seized by the Government as a war measure in 1863. Part of it is now occupied by Fort Mason. The portion claimed by the city is sought for park purposes.

The various departments of the city government of San Francisco have experienced their first complete audit in many years. Confidential reports disclose only one real shortage in any department, that being in the sheriff's office where from $7,000 to $10,000 is said to be missing. Most of this sum has been repaid. A $1,000 shortage in the Board of Health Department was repaid at once. The grand jury promises recommendations for drastic changes in the bookkeeping systems of the future.

With petitions bearing hundreds of names, some urging repeal of the Kern County anti-slot machine ordinance and others protesting against such repeal, the board of supervisors has decided to postpone indefinitely action on the matter. Several days ago, in response to signed appeals to repeal, the board instructed the district attorney to prepare a repeal measure, following a vote of 3 to 2, with Supervisors Stanley Abel and Perry Brite opposing, and Supervisors W. R. Woollores, John O. Hart and Richard E. Ashe favoring taking the law off the books. Those voting for repeal contend that the ordinance was daily being violated in Bakersfield and every other municipality, and observed only in the remote country districts.

Grey bones and skulls that once were incorporated in nimble little three-toed horses and thundering mastodons have been found by the University of California paleontologists along the Canadian river in northern Texas. These bones and more valuable finds which R. A. Stirton, curator of the vertebrate collection at the University Museum, expects to excavate there, date back 7,500,000 years to the Pliocene Age. Why these fossil beds should be located in this region was explained by Professor W. D. Matthew, curator of the University Museum. "The animals came down to the rivers to drink," he reasoned. "Here they were either caught in the mud, or attacked by carnivorous animals. Perhaps both. In most cases they were torn to pieces and their separate bones distributed about in the river mud. The finding of complete skeletons undisturbed by carnivorous beasts, is rare and such specimens are extremely valuable."

Establishment of 12 1/2 cents a pound for salmon May 1 to June 15 as their price to the wholesalers has been proposed by the Sacramento River Fishermen's Union. The wholesale fish dealers of San Francisco are now said to be considering the proposal. The present method is to fix the price of fish weekly.

California's quota for the Citizen Military Training Camps this year will be 1,555. This figure was given in a schedule announced at Ninth Corps Area headquarters at the Presidio, San Francisco, by Major Elmer C. Desobry.

Queer Sample of Star Play—Hunch

Hugh Critz says: "Great fielders follow hunches without being able to explain exactly why. My explanation of a hunch is this: I think it's a species of instantaneous reasoning that happens so quickly that the steps by which you arrive at your conclusion elude your memory. Out of the air, as it were, like a whizzing baseball, you grab an idea and act upon it without an instant's hesitation. I would call that but a superior kind of quick thinking."

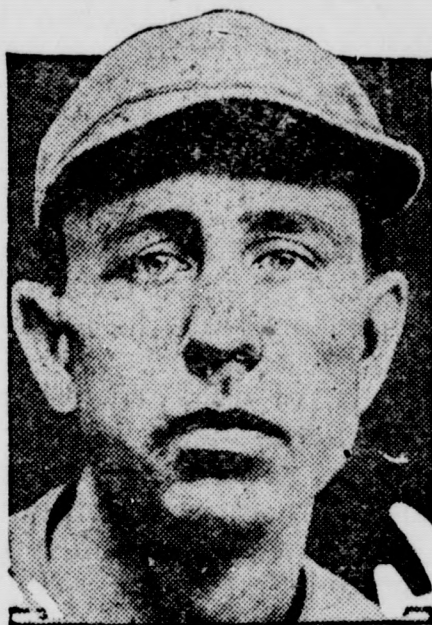

FREDDIE MAGUIRE GOES TO BOSTON

To Fill Place Made Vacant
by Hornsby's Exit.

Freddie Maguire's big league career has been a brief but eventful one. He came from Toledo last spring to play second base for the Cubs alongside a second year shortstop, no light assignment for a rookie when it is considered that the Cubs had pennant aspirations. They called him the weak link in the Cub pennant chain last spring and they hoped that the hard hitting outfield would carry him and his futile bat along to the championship.

Well, Maguire hit only .277 but he was one of the finest fielding second basemen in the business and he had a part in many batting rallies that the famous outfield did not help along. This first year rookie batted in 38 runs and scored 69 himself, not so grand, and yet not so terrible.

They do say that a great keystone man is essential to a championship team, and if this is true Maguire must be quite a boy, for he played 140 games for the Cubs at second base last season, and these same Cubs were in the pennant fight up to the last ten days of play. Surely it was not Maguire who was the weak link in the Cubs pennant chain. A game boy in the pinches, both at the bat and in the field. He hit within nine points of Cuyler and he accounted for more runs than many outfielders of standing in his league. And as for his play at second it was brilliant at times and it was steady when the baseball pressure was more than 200 pounds to the square inch.

But the fates of the game moved the clever and promising Maguire as a pawn in the deal that brought the redoubtable Hornsby to the Cub machine, and so Freddie will play for the Braves in Boston next season. He must fill Hornsby's shoes when the Braves go on the warpath in 1929. And he will probably fill them—in the field, for he bids fair to be one of the great second basemen of his day, but no man can fill in for Hornsby and his .400 hitting average with the bat. This Maguire is no spring chicken, even if he has just finished his first major league season, for he is twenty-eight years old.

Plenty of Tall Timber for Husky Frosh Crew

Of 150 freshmen turning out for crew at the University of Washington, 81 are 6 feet or more tall. And 38 of them are 6 feet 3 inches or more.

Freshman Coach Tom Bolles is inclined to worry about the height of his material, not because his aspiring oarsmen lack power, rhythm or stamina, but because some of them carry their heads so high up in the sky that they might make the boat topheavy.

Three of the youths, Karl Reese, James Donahue and Bob Hutchinson, are 6 feet 7 inches tall, while Ed Johnson is only an inch shorter.

Withal, Bolles expects to have one of the most powerful "babe" shells ever to row for the Huskies.

Herb Pennock Working on His Sore Pitching Arm

Herb Pennock, the Yankees' south-paw pitching ace, believes his arm has completely recovered from the attack of neuritis that laid him low at the end of last season, but he is taking no chances on having it come back. Calling at the Yanks' office, Pennock reported that he is in fine shape and sure he will be ready for his regular turn when the baseball season comes around. As an aid to the cure he plans to go to Florida ahead of the rest of the team, and try the effects of the sun on his arm.

DIFFERENT DESSERTS

As a meal seems incomplete without some sweet or simple dessert with which to finish it, the following may be helpful in planning the menu:

Rice Pudding With Chocolate Sauce.—Wash one-half cupful of rice and add it to one quart of scalded milk, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, one-third of a cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of seeded raisins. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake slowly in a moderate oven two hours, stirring occasionally the first hour. After cooking two hours, add one pint of cold milk and continue cooking three-fourths of an hour longer. Serve with a hot chocolate sauce.

Piedmont Rhubarb Pie.—Beat two eggs lightly, add two cupfuls of sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, four common milk crackers rolled, and two and one-half cupfuls of rhubarb cut into half-inch pieces. Mix well and turn into a pastry-lined plate. Dot with one and one-fourth tablespoonfuls of butter, add one tablespoonful of apple jelly and dust well with nutmeg. Wet the edge of the pastry with water and lay on strips of pastry in parallel rows, crossing each other lattice fashion. Press the edge and flute the rim. Bake thirty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

Apricot Shortcake.—Bake a cake in two layers and put together with apricot sauce. Take one cupful of canned apricots put through a sieve. Add one-half cupful of the apricot syrup, cook down until thick. Whip two cupfuls of cream until stiff, fold in the apricot pulp and syrup, add a bit of salt and a few drops of almond extract.

Snow Balls With Fruit Sauce.—Cream one-third of a cupful of butter, add one cupful of sugar, stir until well blended. Mix and sift two and one-fourth cupfuls of flour, three and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-eighth teaspoonful of salt; add to the first mixture alternately, with one-half cupful of milk. Fill buttered cups two-thirds full, steam thirty-five minutes.

What to Eat.

As pie is the great American dessert, the following may be new to some:

Coconut Pie.—Prepare a custard of two cupfuls of scalded milk poured slowly over three slightly beaten eggs, mixed with one-fourth of a cupful of sugar.

a pinch of salt and two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch mixed with a little cold milk. Cook fifteen minutes in a double boiler until the mixture thickens. Stir constantly the first five minutes, afterwards occasionally. Remove from the heat, add the whites of two eggs beaten stiff and one tea-spoonful vanilla; cook one minute and cool, then add one-half cupful of grated coconut. Brush the bottom of a baked pastry shell lightly with the white of egg, sprinkle over it a layer of coconut, turn in the mixture, spread with a meringue made with the whites of two eggs beaten stiff with two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Sprinkle with granulated sugar and brown in a moderate oven. Serve cold.

Sweet Potato Pie a la Hot Springs.—Take one pint of cooked mashed sweet potatoes, one cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of flour, one pint of milk, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, a pinch of allspice and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Bake in one crust until firm.

Moody Salad.—Make a nest of shredded lettuce for each salad plate. Arrange thinly sliced cucumbers, a bit of chopped green onion and two or three eighths of ripe red tomatoes on the lettuce. Cover with a highly seasoned French dressing.

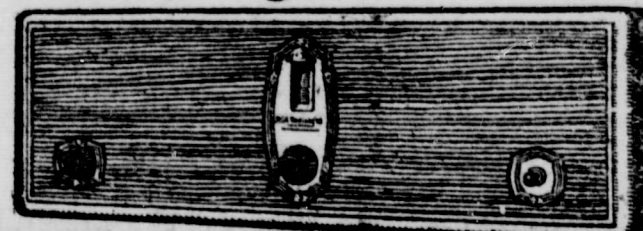

Broiled Salt Mackerel.—Soak salt mackerel over night or until most of the salt is removed. Drain and place on a well greased broiler. Cook until lightly browned. Dress with thick sweet cream and serve at once. If the mackerel is fresh, broil and dress with lemon butter.

Cherry Pudding.—Take one cupful of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of baking powder and enough rich milk to make a mixture to drop from the spoon. Butter custard cups, add a spoonful of the batter, cover with a spoonful of canned cherries, juice and all, and top with another spoonful of the dough, leaving space for the mixture to rise. Place in a pan of boiling water, cover well and boil fifteen minutes. Serve with cream and sugar.

EDISON AND HAPPINESS

Thomas A. Edison, who celebrated his eighty-second birthday last Monday, is quoted as saying that he doesn't know anyone who is happy. Mr. Edison did not say he was not happy. If anyone in this world should be happy, it is Thomas A. Edison. His numerous inventions have brought much happiness to the world, and if people are not happy, it certainly is not Mr. Edison's fault.

We are inclined to believe that, if he was quoted correctly, Mr. Edison simply meant to convey the thought that he didn't know anyone who did not have some sorrow—they were not entirely and supremely happy.

Among other expressions by Mr. Edison were: "We don't know one millionth of what there is to know. We don't know anything about the forces of electricity, of magnetism, of sound waves—we know something about sound—but about none of these forces do we know anything. So you see there is a big opening.

"Man has merely scratched the surface in the ever-absorbing task of harnessing the potential forces of Nature. There is no visioning what the future will bring.

"Prosperity will flow from the administration of Herbert Hoover, but increased stock speculation will result in 'ultimate panic' and loss of confidence in the business world.

"The United States must build a navy on a parity with that of Great Britain.

"Congress should appropriate the additional $24,000,000 now pending for the enforcement of federal prohibition."

An alert managing editor objected to a notice of the "first concert of the Mozart Cycle," on the ground that he didn't want to give any bicycle firm free advertising in the news columns.

Curiosity regarding the Hoover cabinet is expressed by the time-honored phrase, "speculation is rife." And it's getting rife ever minute.

So drive that when your summons come you may lie as convincingly as possible.

HEROES OF THE AMERICA

In response to popular demand, Captain George Fried of the liner America, whose thrilling rescue of the sailors of the Italian steamer Florida gripped the imagination of the world, will make a tour of principal cities to tell of the heroic exploit of the seamen under his command.

And while receiving the plaudits of his fellow countrymen and a message of gratitude from the King of Italy, as well as unstinted praise from other nations, Captain Fried modestly gives the credit for the America's almost unprecedented feat to Chief Officer Manning and his brave companions of the lifeboat's crew.

Captain Fried's masterly seamanship and unerring judgment, coupled with the efficiency and devotion of his radiomen and others under his command, brought the America to the scene of the rescue, but after all it was the sheer grit and skill of the lifeboat crew that made possible one of the most difficult rescues in the annals of the sea—a rescue 100 per cent perfect, because not a man was lost from either vessel.

So here we may set down the names of the heroic eight who braved the horrors of darkness and a raging sea to save their fellowmen: Chief Officer Manning, Boat-swain's Mate Wilson, Masters-at-Arms Walleck and Talts, Seamen Harrabin, Bracco, Kellam and Trittan. Truly a distinguished roll of honor.

A FINE IDEA, BUT—

Senator Capper of Kansas has a fine idea. He wants to abolish Congress, substituting a small board of directors similar to that of a great corporation, with the President at its head.

In urging his plan, he points out that there is now one government official or employee for every ten persons in the country. In other words, we must give one day's earnings out of ten toward the pay of these public employees, besides paying our share of the other expenses of government.

But, regardless of the merits of Senator Capper's idea, it has one fatal defect—it won't work. Congress could not be abolished except through a constitutional amendment proposed by a two-thirds vote of Congress itself. How many Congressmen would ever vote to abolish their own jobs?

FIVE MILLION NEW CARS

Five million new automobiles will be produced in the United States during 1929, according to an estimate made by Alvan McCaule, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, a prediction quite in line with the judgment of other observers of the industry.

This increase, after allowing for old cars scrapped, would bring the total number of automobiles to an average of one for each family. Of course, it will be a long time before every family really possesses an automobile, but more and more families are owning two cars, while a good many own several. It is estimated that about 3,000,000 families now own more than one car each.

A writer in the New York Times quotes a high Russian official who contrasts living standards in America with those in Russia and says: "Your aim in America is for

SIDELIGHTS

Another case of a woman who fooled the doctors is reported from New Orleans. Forty years ago, when yellow fever scourged that city, Marie Felecie, a little French maid, took the disease and was told she had but three days to live. She was married to E. B. Peyronin on her supposed death bed. They recently celebrated their golden wedding.

Rummaging among a pile of old books, a New York man stumbled upon something unusual. It was not Lon Chaney, but a rare copy of Edgar Allen Poe's "The Murders in the Rue Morgue." It was sold for $25,000. The original owner bought it 80 years ago for 12 cents.

A British non-commissioned officer in India tells this one: A herd of elephants attached to the Sixtieth British rifles were habitually fed with twenty flat "chaupattie" cakes each. The animals would not begin to eat until the full ration of twenty was counted out. Once the keeper gave one elephant only nineteen cakes, whereupon the beast refused to eat and trumpeted long and loudly until the missing cake was placed before him.

General Smedley T. Butler has been presented with a "Ten-Thousand Men Umbrella" by two Chinese villages, this being the highest honor which they could confer in recognition of his services to their communities. A stone monument was also dedicated to General Butler and his Marines. He appears to have made a greater hit in China than he did by his efforts to reform Philadelphia.

John Briscano, of Hoboken, has been paying $10 a week alimony to his wife, which he regularly turned over to Policeman Burk, all in pennies. He got by with his little joke until the other day, when the officer was carrying the weekly contribution on the street in a paper bag, which split and spilled 1,000 pennies all over the sidewalk. Briscano was placed under $500 bond with orders to pay off in paper money in future.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

WHEREAS, John A. Kaas and Lois J. Kaas, his wife, as parties of the first part, did on the 15th day of March, 1927, make, execute and deliver to Title Insurance & Guaranty Co., a corporation, as party of the second part and trustee, a certain deed of trust, whereby the real property hereinafter described was bargained, sold, conveyed and confirmed, unto said party of the second part, in trust for the purpose of securing payment to Horace Fellows and Madeline Fellows, his wife, the parties of the third part, of a promissory note in the sum of $2,500.00, together with interest at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum in installments of $28.30 per month, which said deed of trust was filed for record in the County of San Mateo, State of California, on the 17th day of March, 1927, in Volume 284, Official Records, page 330, and

WHEREAS, the said parties of the first part have made default in the payment of said sums and have paid nothing on account of the principal and interest of said note since May, 1928, and

WHEREAS, the parties of the third part have elected to declare all sums secured by said deed of trust immediately due and payable and to cause the real property hereinafter described to be sold in order to accomplish the objects of said deed of trust, and have filed in the office of the County Recorder of the County of San Mateo, State of California, a notice of such breach and default and of the election to cause the said property to be sold, which notice was filed in the office of said Recorder on the 25th day of October, 1928, in Volume 383, Official Records, page 161, and

WHEREAS, more than three months have elapsed since the recording of said notice and said parties of the first part are still in default and the said parties of the third part have demanded that the said parties of the second part sell the property conveyed by said deed of trust, and which is hereinafter particularly described, in order to accomplish the objects of said deed of trust:

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given:

That the undersigned Title Insurance & Guaranty Co., party of the second part and trustee in said deed of trust named, will, on Friday, the 22nd day of March, 1929, at the front door of the County Court House at Redwood City, San Mateo County, California, at 10 o'clock A. M., sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder for cash, lawful money of the United States, the following described real property, or as much thereof as it is its discretion shall find necessary to sell in order to accomplish the objects of said deed of trust, to-wit: the payment of the amount now due thereunder, being the sum of $2,127.18, together with interest thereon at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum from the 31st day of May, 1928, plus an attorney's fee in the sum of 5 per cent. of said amount due and costs of sale.

Said property is particularly described as follows, to-wit: That certain real property situated in the First Township, County of San Mateo, State of California, described as follows: Lot numbered thirty-three (33) in Block numbered five (5), as shown on that certain map entitled "Map of the Crocker Estate Tract Subdivision No. 1," filed in the office of the County Recorder of San Mateo County, June 1, 1908, in Book 6 of Maps at page 16.

RED LAMP

THE STORY

Events of the story as set forth in the Journal of William A. Porter, professor of English literature:

The professor's uncle, Horace Porter, died mysteriously at his home, Twin Hollows, now the professor's property. Jane, the professor's wife, is a psychic. With their niece, Edith, the Porters go to Twin Hollows for their vacation, despite Jane's reluctance. A letter Horace had been writing at the time of his death shows that he was interested in spiritualism. It hints of danger. A "red lamp" is mentioned. They take up their residence in the lodge, because of Jane's aversion to the house, Warren Halliday, in love with Edith, comes to live in the boathouse. A number of sheep are mysteriously killed in the vicinity. The slayer leaves a cabalistic sign at the scene of the killings. Greenough, a detective, arrives and Porter has a feeling that he is under suspicion. Twin Hollows is rented to an elderly, partially paralyzed man, Bethel, who, with his secretary, Gordon, takes possession. A youth, Carroway, on watch for the sheep killer, disappears. Porter has the red lamp hidden in a room of which he alone has the key, but many people, including the professor himself, believe they have seen its reflection at Twin Hollows. Halliday is mysteriously attacked and seriously injured. Carroway is found in the bay, murdered. Mary Morrison, Porter's cook, disappears. Gordon, Bethel's secretary, is found unconscious from a blow on the head. Halliday starts an investigation of the mystery.

One finds, for instance, that the small paneled room which we call the den was used for her seances. That paneled in itself sounds suspicious. But stop! It was not paneled at that time; I recall when poor old Horace found that oak paneling and gleefully installed it in what had been the old kitchen of the original farm house.

An investigation, made just now, has supplemented my memory. The photograph (Note: Plate I, "Eugenia Riggs and the Oakville Phenomena") shows a plastered wall, and one or two crude water colors on it. Possibly the spirit paintings of the text. It also shows that the cabinet, so called, was not a cabinet at all, but a dark curtain on a heavy pole, which extends across a blank corner. In the picture these curtains are thrown back, showing a small stand on which are the stage properties of "George," a bell, a pan of something, a glass, and a small bunch of flowers. On the floor, ready for his ghostly band, is a guitar. The wall is certainly plastered.

An inset shows the pan, set on its edge to allow photography, and with the title: "Imprint of hand in putty. Dec. 2nd, 1902. Notice lack of usual whorls and ridges." But in spite of this rather militant caption, I find I am unimpressed. Rather am I wondering whether somewhere in the background there was not a Mr. Riggs, with a short broad thumb and a bent little finger, who was not ignorant of the lack of the usual whorls and ridges in a pair of rubber gloves.

But, considering that plastered wall, the entire evidence in the book, gathered together, forms a surprising whole. One must take off one's hat to the Riggs family, provided there were two of them, or to whomever assisted the lady. Especially since the windows were "shuttered and bolted, and small strings of bells, which would ring at the slightest touch, were hung across them."

August 3.

Halliday, who is an early riser, burst in on us this morning at the breakfast table, fairly bristling with excitement.

"Good morning, everybody!" he sang out. "What do I receive for a piece of very cheering news? Greenough's gone. Benchley came over yesterday and threw him off the case. At least, that's what they say at the post office. Thirteen days he's been fooling around, and he couldn't get over the hump."

"If only he had stayed a little longer," Edith said regretfully, "and somebody had killed him! It's rotten bad luck, that's all."

The conversation had little or no meaning for Jane. She was, I could see, puzzled by our excitement and unable to understand our relief. "Surely they have left somebody," she said. "We ought not to be left without protection. Who knows when something will break out again, and then where are we?"

"Where indeed?" said Halliday.

The move is a totally unexpected one. Yesterday, as Halliday said, the sheriff came over to the hotel and was closeted for an hour or two with Greenough. A bellboy reports that, on carrying some cracked ice to the room, he found Greenough sitting morosely by a table, and Benchley at the window, staring out. Half an hour later the sheriff left, passing out of the hotel without so much as a nod to anyone, and within the hour Greenough was paying his bill in the lobby and ordering a car to take him to the train.

Our own relief is enormous, but there is much grumbling among the summer folk as well as the natives. Starr is the usual variety of small town constable, and it seems extraordinary that the case should be left in his care. It is of course possible that another man is to be sent in Greenough's place, but if so we have no intimation of it.

The immediate result of Greenough's departure has been rather to revive the interest in the situation than otherwise. I dare say as long as the police were on the case the people more or less lay back and depended on them; now they are thrown once more onto their own resources, and a variety of opinions and even of clues are being exchanged at that central clearing house, the post office. Thus:

This morning the cows of a man named Vaughan were found huddled in a corner of the field, giving every evidence of having been run to death during the night.

(To the common sense suggestion of a dog being the culprit, pitying glances.)

A stranger three days ago tried to buy a large knife in the hardware store.

(Later shown to be the Livingstone's new butler seeking a carving knife.)

The second keeper at the lighthouse has resigned, declaring the tower is haunted.

(This is true, so far as the resignation goes. He has, it appears, asked to be transferred. But Ward says there has been no repetition of the strange affair the night of the storm.)

A car driven recklessly and without lights has been seen twice near the Hilburn road, both times after midnight.

(There seems a certain authenticity in this; the car, however, shows its lights until fairly close to another car, when it shuts them off entirely. There may be, of course, some defect in the dimmers.)

My own relief is beyond words. Looking in my shaving mirror today I am startled at the change in me the last few weeks. The Lears are coming out to dinner tonight. More power to them.

August 4.

The party last night was a great success. Lear had brought me out a bottle of claret, and with candles on the table and six wine glasses, hastily borrowed from Annie Cochran at the main house, we took on quite a festive air.

We divided after the meal, Jane and Helena to talk, Edith and Halliday for the boathouse and a canoe, and Lear and I to pace the drive with our cigars.

Lear's quiet face and general dependability, and perhaps the need of a fresh mind on the conditions here, impelled me to tell my story, to which he listened without interruption.

His opinion is that we have to do with a homelike magic, and that the sheep-killing was preliminary to the rest. "A propitiation," he puts it.

The supernatural angle of the case he put aside with a gesture.

"I won't even argue it," he said. "There may be something to it; I'm not denying that. But it's not stuff to be meddled with; when the Lord means to open that veil he will do it. And I am no peeping Tom."

He said further that Helena has taken up the ouija board, and sits for hours "with anyone she can entrap," getting absurd messages which sound well and mean nothing.

"In your place," he said, "I would forget it. If you get really to the point where you think you have something, send for Cameron and let him look into it. But keep out of it yourself, Porter. It's bad medicine."

I took them to the eleven o'clock train, and have only just returned. But I think it would amuse Lear, in spite of his hands-off attitude, to know that as I drove into the garage and shut off the lights and the engine, in the very act of getting out of the car I heard once more that peculiar dry cough, the faint slow footfall and smelled again that curious herbat odor which I shall, all the days of my life, associate with my Uncle Horace.

So unexpected was it, coming on top of the happiest evening of the summer, that I stood for a moment immovable. Then I leaped from the terrifying darkness of the garage out into the moonlight, and there confronted young Gordon, standing out side and quietly smoking.

"Hello!" I said, when I could speak "Out again, I see."

"Yes. That place gets my goat," he replied. "I guess I'm jumpy, since the other night."

He looked bad, and I asked him if he cared to sit down before starting back. But he refused.

"I'll get it—If he finds I've left the house," he said elegantly.

I turned and walked back with him toward the house, and seeing him secretly amused about something, asked him what it was, whereupon he said that he was thinking of the way I had shot out of the garage.

"Put something over on you there, didn't I?"

"You startled me. What do you mean?"

"I guess you know," he said, with his side-long glance. "That cough."

"You mean, the lighthouse story?"

He fell again into one of his secret convulsions of mirth.

"No, I don't mean the lighthouse," he said, and turning abruptly, struck off through the trees.

I can take from this as much or as little as I will. Is it possible that Gordon has heard the cough in the house, and associates it with the other sounds of which he has complained to Annie Cochran? Or has he merely been told of it, and with his perverted idea of humor, been deliberately alarming me with it?

August 5

Annie Cochran declares that young Gordon has been in the habit of slipping out of the house at night; that he commenced to do it shortly after his arrival, and has done it ever since; that, indeed, he was not sitting on the kitchen steps before he was attacked, but had been out in the car, and was trying to get back into the house.

She also believes that Mr. Bethel suspects it, and has been on the alert, especially since the night of the attack.

"There's been bad blood between them, ever since that night," she said.

Edith and Halliday for the Boathouse and a Canoe.

"They talk a bit when I'm in the dining room, but once I'm out of it, they're as glum as oysters."

She also suspects Mr. Bethel of being afraid of Gordon. On the nights when she assisted him upstairs, while the secretary was still invalided, she always heard him bolt his door as soon as he was inside.

"And the nights he stayed down," she added, "he had me bring down that revolver of his. He laid it to the fellow who got in by the gun room window, but I've got my own ideas about it."

"What makes you think Gordon had been off the place, the night he was hurt?"

"He said he couldn't sleep, didn't he? And he got up and went downstairs to get something to eat, and then went outside?"

"So he said."

"Well, as far as I can make out, he was dressed from top to toe. He didn't need to do that to get down to the pantry."

And we had missed that! Hayward, Greenough and I had checked up that story, according to our several abilities, and had never noticed that discrepancy. "I sent his clothes to be cleaned the next day," she said, "and I noticed it then."

But her real contribution, if I may call it that, lay in the garage, and after tip-toeing to the hall and listening to the sound of Mr. Bethel's dictation from within, she drew me out side.

"So far as I know," she said, "that car's only been out twice since they came, and that was to take Thomas home one time, and me another, the night of the storm. But it's been out just the same."

"Wouldn't the old man hear it?"

"He might and he might not. Suppose it was rolled along the lane and started? He wouldn't hear it there, would he?"

To support her contention she showed me a number of marks in the lane, certainly suspicious but by no means evidential. It is nothing unusual for motorists to strike into the woodland along the lane, under the impression that it is a public road and to be brought up all standing at the house.

But against all this, at least as pointing to young Gordon as our possible criminal, is what is to me an insuperable obstacle. We know that the crimes are connected with the killing of the sheep. It is not possible to doubt this. And the sheep were killed and the altar built before Mr. Bethel brought Gordon into the neighborhood.

Annie Cochran has a certain support for her contention, but not enough.

And she dislikes the boy extremely. Probably she unwittingly revealed the reason for her attack on him just before I left.

"There's something wrong about him," she said. "When a man's dishonest he thinks everybody else is. He's taken to locking his room and carrying the key about with him. I never took a thing of anybody else's in my life."

As Halliday went to town early today, taking the scrap of paper with the cipher to an expert he knows there, I have not been able to discuss this new angle with him. Quite aside from the discrepancy in dates, however, Gordon not arriving until after the reign of terror was well under way, the chief stumbling block is the attack on the boy himself.

Suppose the boy does slip out at night, and take the car? He is young and I imagine pretty much a prisoner all day. He takes dictation all morning, types after luncheon while Mr. Bethel sleeps, and at four o'clock again is ready with his book and pencil. The few moments he has spent with Edith now and then are plainly stolen.

August 6.

Halliday's expert was not particularly helpful, I gather. We have this to our advantage, however, if advantage it be; the typing was done on a Remington machine.

As I had expected, he does not take Annie Cochran's story very seriously, but he bases his skepticism rather on the beginning of the terror before the boy came, than on the attack on the boy himself.

Aside from this blind alley, up which Annie Cochran started us, we are all more nearly normal than we have been since the early days of the summer. I rise, shave and bathe and go to my breakfast, no longer with the feeling that it may be, figuratively speaking, my last.

We are not worried by the uncertainty of the prospect before us; the long period ahead of Edith and Halliday before they can marry; that next year, and the year after that, and God knows how many years to come I shall be pouring the priceless treasures of the English language into ears that will not hear; that my vacation is more than half over, and that its net result so far is a loss to me of some odd pounds of weight.

August 7.

Edith has today received the large sum of ten dollars for the lighthouse story. While she is still far from the opulence she has anticipated, there has been great excitement here today, on receipt of the check.

I find that Halliday has been quietly working along the lines opened up by Annie Cochran. He is convinced that Gordon has been going out at nights, clandestinely, and using the car to do so.

"I don't blame him for that," he said today. "The car's there, and not being used. And I'm not keen about Gordon—but from such views as I have had of Mr. Bethel, a little of him would go a long way. Gordon's disconnected the speedometer, by the way. But there's something else."

He thinks it was Gordon who set fire to the boathouse. He found a bit of waste outside the garage, hanging on a limb of blue spruce there, and a similar scrap on the raised walk over the marsh to the boathouse.

"But why?" I asked. "There has to be a reason."

Charm and Ability Handicap to Asquith

Lord Castlereagh, writing on the death of Lord Asquith, dealt with the erudition of the Asquith family and said: "I could give you many examples of this. Years before the newspapers started their general knowledge questions Mr. Anthony Asquith invented a game of plying his father with strange and outlandish queries, and yet so great was Lord Oxford's erudition that I can hardly remember him failing over a fair question. I once heard Mr. Anthony Asquith persuade his father to recite backwards the Derby winners for the last 22 years, which he did accurately; to describe the duties of an official of the college of heralds; and also to give a brief description of a minor character in Max Beerbohm's 'Zuleika Dobson.'" Elsewhere Lord Castlereagh wrote: "It is true that Asquith was making a name for himself as a scholar in his youth but unfortunately he was earning no money. One day Lord Portsmouth wrote the famous master, Reverend Doctor Jowett, and said: 'Have you got a suitable undergraduate to read with my son, Lord Lynton, during the long vacation?'" Doctor Jowett replied that he had exactly the article required, in the shape of Mr. Asquith.

As a tutor Mr. Asquith was a great success, but there was a drawback in having this handsome, penniless, clever young man in a household for every single young lady in the countryside fell head-over-heels in love with him to the consternation of the matchmaking mothers. At last Doctor Jowett was communicated with again, and asked if he could not substitute a less clever, less attractive and less amusing tutor.—Pierre Van Passen, in the Atlanta Constitution.

Cat's Meow

The cat who loves cod liver oil is being out upon. He sure is more fond of cod liver oil than liver or raw hamburger steak, or salmon, or kidneys, or cat food—and the family know it.

Recently he decided to go out for the evening. The youngster did not wish to have him go, but he did out on the steps looking around for worlds to conquer. No calling for "Kitty, kitty," would budge him an inch.

Then the small youngster ran and got the cod liver oil bottle. She held it out to him as bait. He gave one sniff in the air and then came to the bottle as true as a needle to a magnet. The child walked into the house with the bottle, the cat following—and she had him.—Springfield Union.

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

"Always an Easy Victim!"

Writes Mr. Walters:

(But Things are Different Now)

"FOR SEVERAL years I have been a continual sufferer from catarrh of the stomach—run-down condition—didn't sleep well or eat good." [Many do not suspect that the stomach can cause so much illness—but it does.] "I was always an easy victim of colds; now I am on my third bottle of PER-UNA—sleep fine and notice the biggest change." [It's something to be grateful for that PER-UNA can do so much for sufferers.] "I well remember my parents taking PER-UNA years ago; I can cheerfully praise 'to the skies.' Fiercer Than Shark

It is generally believed that the shark is the most dangerous, but the barracuda, a large savage pikelike fish of the tropical seas, is more apt to attack man than the shark. It is almost as large as a twelve-year-old boy and its mouth is such that any bite is likely to result in permanent injury.

Why He Succeeded

Honored politically and professionally, during his lifetime, Dr. R. V. Pierce, whose picture appears here, made a success few have equalled. His pure herbal remedies which have stood the test for many years are still among the "best sellers." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a stomach alterative which makes the blood richer. It clears the skin, beautifies it; pimples and eruptions vanish quickly. This Discovery, or "G M D," of Dr. Pierce's puts you in fine condition. All dealers have it in liquid or tablets.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

WHAT DR. CALDWELL LEARNED IN 47 YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the system and is not habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for anybody's system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly.

Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to the nearest druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

Tom and Daphne's Difficulty

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright.)

AT DAPHNE'S suggestion Tom Yates had come for a last call that bleak midwinter afternoon, and there sat Daphne looking very small and a trifle bewildered on the divan of the formally furnished drawing room and there sat Tom at least twelve feet away looking to Daphne much more self possessed than she had ever thought of him.

Daphne walked across the room to Tom and laid the little box containing her engagement ring on the pie-crust table beside his chair. Tom rose as she came and sat down sedately when she had gone back to her place on the divan.

"Of course it will be embarrassing for me—breaking the engagement after every one has been told," Daphne bit her lips and looked at the finger that seemed so bare and forlorn now that Tom's diamond no longer sparkled there.

"I suppose it is better to feel embarrassment than life-long regret," said Tom not daring to look at Daphne.

"Please, Tom, don't make me feel any worse than I do. It really was your fault just as much as it was mine. The only reason why Aunt Marion objected to you was because she wanted to make a match for me with some young friend of her own, and father really didn't object—only he said that if you did marry me you would have to give up your own ideas of a profession—and work in with him. It has always been that way in the family, and as you would some day share the fortune made from the factories he thought it was only fair for you to help shoulder the responsibilities."

"Naturally I refused to accept that proposition," said Tom dryly. "It is just as much a tradition in my family for the sons to study law."

"And mother's objections are not real objections. It's just general principles with her—just as it is with your mother. You know your mother said she wouldn't come to the wedding."

"Naturally I am as fond of my mother as you are of yours—still, Daphne—" Tom shifted his gaze from the portrait to Daphne's face. Their eyes met and two tears were trickling down Daphne's cheeks.

"If there was only some one whose advice we could ask," said Daphne. "Some older person who has had experience. We may be doing the best thing, Tom, and we may be wrecking our chances for happiness. Tom, isn't there some one in your family who isn't prejudiced—and who could help us decide?"

Tom thought for a moment. This idea of Daphne's struck him as admirable.

"I know, Daphne," he said at last. "There's your grandmother. Perhaps she could help us."

Daphne protested for a moment or two, for Daphne had always been a little afraid of the majestic old lady. But together they went to the grandmother's rooms and after having persuaded the middle-aged companion that they would not do anything to put her charge in a bad temper they sat down beside the old lady and explained rather flatteringly the entire situation.

The old eyes followed the expression on Tom's and Daphne's faces with the keenest scrutiny. She listened silently and then, leaning forward toward them, broke forth loudly:

"What right have either of you to think of your own interests?" she cried. "Don't you know that your life, all you have, you owe to your family? Can you expect ever to be happy if you fail to consider their wishes? Even if the young man did go into the factories—I'd object. Marian is going to cut you off in her will as it is, Daphne. And I intend to do the same, and don't forget, young woman, that I am still owner of the factories."

On she stormed, her old eyes growing brighter and brighter as she did so, still eagerly watching the change of expression on the young people's faces. Finally they rose and Tom gently laid his hand on Daphne's arm and with a ceremonious bow to the old woman led Daphne from the room.

In a corner of the hall downstairs they stood very close together.

"It was my fault, Daphne," said Tom. "I should never have made the suggestion." Daphne's hands were clutching Tom's arm for protection. "She had no right to speak to you as she did," she said. "Even if she is a million years old, I shall never speak to her again unless she apologizes—and as for her money I don't care a snap."

"And you know I don't care either," said Tom. "You know that—Daphne? You know I'd marry you if you didn't have a cent."

"You would marry me still?" begged Daphne.

"I'd marry you this afternoon if we had the license. Let's go get it now so we can be married tomorrow."

And while Tom and Daphne made their plans below, Daphne's grandmother laughed aloud to herself above. She had decided that if Daphne had spunk enough to marry Tom anyway, she would change her will making this grandchild the sole beneficiary. "And if she doesn't marry him," said grandma aloud, "I'll cut her off with-out a farthing."

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MARCH WINDS

"What sort of a trip are you going to take?" asked Mr. East Wind. "A windy trip," laughed Mr. North Wind.

"I can well believe that," said Mr. East Wind. "And when are you going to start?"

"At once," said Mr. North Wind, as he blew and whistled through the air.

"I'm ready," said Mr. East Wind. And together they started. Over the cities and towns they traveled. They went over a great many, and they got all the little breezes and their grandchildren, to work with them.

They visited the lakes and made the waves dance and roar with glee. They talked to all the trees and got them shaking with laughter and waving about in high excitement.

Everywhere they went they laughed and joked with all the things they met—the shrubs, trees, rivers, and even the shutters on the outside of windows.

What a time they did have with the shutters! They told them such

Over the Cities and Towns They Traveled.

Jokes that the shutters almost fell off laughing.

Shutters always shake and rattle with laughter when the North Wind tells them a joke.

Such a joker as the North Wind is! He can think up more jokes than any other wind.

How he does enjoy his own jokes, too! The jolly old soul!

"I should think people would find me so cool and refreshing," said Mr. North Wind.

"I am sure people must enjoy me. Watch them hold on their hats—I keep people interested in something."

"I think I will sing a song now."

So Mr. North Wind sang, and this was his song:

I'm the North Wind so bold,
I am good and I'm cold,
I am really so brisk,
That folks run the risk
Of losing their hats,
So I say "Jing-Bats!"

"Whatever does Jing-Bats mean?" asked Mr. East Wind. "Nothing at all. They just came into my head to make the rhyme—and so I used them."

"Without any special sense or meaning?" asked Mr. East Wind.

"That shows," said Mr. North Wind, "that you don't understand about poetry."

"Nor about songs. Who cares about the sense so long as they rhyme! I'm sure lots of poets don't. So there!"

"Oh, very well," said Mr. East Wind. "I'm sure I don't mind. I just wanted to know if I was supposed to understand about Jing-Bats."

"As long as they're nothing, then I'm all right."

Mr. North Wind was singing again:

I must sing and blow,
Heigh-ho, heigh-ho,
And race and tear,
As I go through the air.

Now, down on the earth, the people did not know what Mr. North Wind was saying, nor did they know what a fine time he and Mr. East Wind were having, but they did know that all around things were blowing, blowing, blowing, so the Earth people said:

"How terrific are the March Winds, and how especially hard the North Wind is blowing today!"

The Violet

Teacher (stressing difference between the rose and the modest violet):—Now, a well-dressed, lovely lady goes along the street but is proud and greets nobody—that is the rose—behind her goes a small creature with bowed head—

Pupil—That is her husband.

Self Service

Mother—Were you good at the party?

Six-Year-Old—Yes.

"You didn't ask twice for anything at the table?"

"No, I didn't. I asked once, and they didn't hear me, so I helped myself."—Pearson's.

Menu for Dinner

The telephone rang and mother answered. Little Eleanor wished to know what it was about.

"Oh," said mother, "daddy just called to say he was bringing a man home for dinner."

Eleanor, the personification of horror, said, "Mamma, is he cooked?"

A Few Little Smiles

JUST AS GOOD

"Do you keep silkoline?" asked a young wife of a Hiawatha merchant, as the World reports it.

"I am sorry, madam, but we are out of it today," explained the merchant apologetically.

"Oh, what a pity, and I wanted it so badly," mourned the young woman. "But if you haven't it, I'll try to make something else answer. Just give me two yards of cottolene."—Capper's Weekly.

LOCK 'EM UP

Cooking Teacher—What is the best way to preserve cakes in perfect condition after they are baked?

Student (with small brothers in mind)—Lock 'em up.

Chattering Jay

If a J be your initial,
Mind you don't act superficial,
Garrulous or vain—you may
Be just like a chattering Jay!

Appropriate

It was at a charity dinner that a careless waiter spilt a plate of soup over a clergyman's clothes.

"What—" he commenced. Then, remembering himself, he turned to his neighbor and said: "Will you kindly say a few words appropriate to the occasion?"—Pearson's Weekly.

Relativities

"Your constituents say your speeches are not as good as they were in days gone by."

"Perhaps the present oratory does not show so much mentality," admitted Senator Sorghum, "but neither does some of the voting."—Washington Star.

Hal Ha! Ha!

Manager—The president sure got the surprise of his life.

Traffic Operator—Did his stocks fall?

Manager—No; married his stenographer and thought she'd take notes after they were married, but the only notes she would take were bank notes.

Well Informed

"I suppose you don't know a thing about your neighbors," the country woman remarked to the city lady.

"Oh, yes, I know a lot about them."

"I thought folks didn't in the city."

"I know, but you see I'm well acquainted with the postman."

WHERE WOULD HE JUMP

He (about to leave city)—This will be my last spring in your town.

She—Where are you going to jump to now?

Cause for Scratching

Hives rhymes with wives,
In sound and letter match—
If I had them both at once,
Gee Whiz! I'd have to scratch!

Not Much

Lowe—The doctor says I've got to have my appendix, tonsils and adenoids taken out and a piece of bone removed from my nose.

Crowe—Gosh, you won't have much left, will you?

Lowe—Not a cent.

Be Merciful

Maybel—I'm engaged to a struggling young lawyer.

Clarice—Then why not release him from his promise?

Served Its Purpose

Old Pa Newgilt—I paid $350 for that costume for you to wear at the Old-fam's fishing party and you never caught a fish.

His Daughter—Hm! You always call Percy Oldfam a poor fish, and I caught him.

At Last

Hiram—Our gal won the blue ribbon at the beauty contest!

Miranda—Thank heavens, she'll hev somethin' tew wear now.

IT'S ALL TRUE

—when you have the right radio

RADIO does bring the city "up close." It does mean more to farm families than to anyone else.

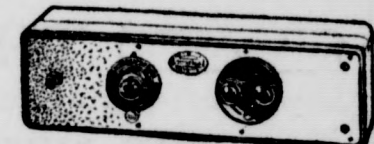

BUT you've got to have a good radio. Radio that reaches out. Radio that sounds natural. Radio that's always ready when you are. The best evidence that Atwater Kent Radio is good radio—that it really does the job as everybody wants it done—is the fact that it is and has been for a long time the best seller in both the city and the country. After listening, after comparing prices, most people want it—because they find it's the kind they want.

From a lamp-socket or from batteries

Some homes have electricity, some haven't. Either way, you get fine Atwater Kent performance and proved dependability. If you do not happen to have power from a central station, you can enjoy the broadcasting with the improved, powerful 1929 Atwater Kent
